Men have a tendency to complain about a number of things including, public restrooms, cleaning supplies, schedules and just plain ole' venting. But men all over the country are finding a solution to the problem of public restrooms. It is called the Men's Restroom of the Future. We are at present building the first Men's Restroom of the Future, a 30,000 square foot building on the grounds of the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. Located in Cleveland, the bathroom will be in conjunction with the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame as a permanent exhibit. The exhibit will feature over 100 different bathroom stalls. The Men's Restroom of the Future is the only restroom on the planet that features an individual privacy system. Men will be able to enter and leave the restroom as they please, without worrying that the next person who enters will be able to see what they have been doing in the stall. And, because the restroom has been designed with men in mind, the individual stalls feature all of the features a man would expect in a restroom stall. In addition to individual stalls, each stall also includes a sink and a mirror, for those precious moments that you don't want anyone seeing what you are doing. The restroom will feature over a dozen different television stations, as well as a complete line of grooming products, and soap products. The restrooms also include a unique, scent activated lighting system, which will turn on whenever anyone enters the restroom, and turn off when no one enters for a few hours. The construction process is still in the beginning stages. A $14 million project, the Men's Restroom of the Future was completed in just under two years. The unique restroom is being built as a permanent 82157476af
